A NEW DEATH-DEALING MACHINE. THE "RIFLE BATTKEY" WHICH REDUCES DESTRUC-

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

TION TO A FINE ART. A gun, which promises to be the most terrible agent of destruction of modern times, was on exhibition vesterday at the office of the patentees and inventors, Francis E. Meyer and Frederick Schuitz, No. 38 Dey-st. The "rifle battery," as it is called, is so conructed as to deliver its fire either to a right line or it horizontal, radiating lines. The barrels, ranging in number from six to twenty, are sufficiently far apart to pre vent heating from continuous firing, and are fired suc essively, instead of simultaneously, at the rate of 20,000 shofs an hour. A steel cover in front of the gunners pretects them from the enemy's fire. These guns may be fired continuously in one fixed direction, or from side to side, or the battery may be made to vibrate laterally of itself, at the discharge of each gun, thus sweeping the field in front. The barrels are about an inch apart, and at intervals, where the guns are held by clasps, they are nelosed within asbestos or some non-conductor of heat-The battery may be divided into the barrels and the preech-block or muchlurry by which the barrels are loaded and discharged, the whole resting on a turn-table or pivot. The balls are placed in a cartridge-receiver at right angles to and resting on the blocks. At the right of this is a crank, at the left a lever. By pressing the lever in a given direction the block is forced up to the of this is a crank, at the left a lever. By pressing the lever in a given direction the block is forced up to the mazzle of the gub, when an automatic loader entied the "fingers" takes hold of the cartridges and withdraws them from the receiver. Another turn of the lever and the balls are forced into the muzzles, and the battery is loaded. Tagn the crank at the right is turned, and at every revolution a needle is turnet forward, and strikes a cartridge with sufficient force to explode it. Again the lever on the left is turned, and the "fingers" advance and withdraw the spent cartridges, and the battery is again ready to be loaded. By means of a screw placed in the centre of the block the battery may be elevated or depressed at pleasure. The inventors are trying to have their guns adopted by the English Government. They claim that they will be especially effective in may engagements. Yesterday, with a toy model of the battery, a vall was fired through an oak plank an inch in thickness at fifteen yards.

SEEKING THE CAUSE OF THE NOISE. STILL EXPERIMENTING ON SIXTH-AVE.

Experiments in the attempt to decrease the poise on the Metropolitan Elevated Railway continue the last plan being to euclose the trucks in a wooder soft, will not transmit sound. It was expected that th experiment would take place yesterday, but the cars were not ready; it may take place to-day, although Superintendent Van Brocklin states that it is not certain when the cars will be ready. The "petticoat" train was running yesterday, with some improvements. Mr on is still at the West, and has made no flual report on his experiments. Whether he will make any more observations on the road is uncertain. Mr. Van Brocklin stated yesterday that there was less complaint of noise stated yesterday that there was less complaint of noise along the line than at first. He attributed most of the compiaint to imagination, and said that people had now become more accustomed to the noise. "No road can take," he said, "the number of passengers that we do from Central Park in twenty minutes without some noise, and these same cars, run on a surface road, would make far more noise." The principle that the most heavily loaded trains make the least noise is recognized by the company, and on this it bases some experiments. It also claims that this shows the error of the common belief that the noise is caused by the vibration of the structure, and proves that the cause is in the wheels. Lead and felt have been used where the iron and wood come in contact. Among other improvements the management will soon place an automatic signal box in the cars, which will announce each station before it is reached.

ADJUSTING THE CLAIMS OF CREDITORS. J. L. Colby & Co., manufacturers of skirts and bustles, at No. 425 Broome-st., are reported to have suspended, and are negotiating with their creditors for a settlement. The cause of their embarrassment is at tributed to real estate investments by the senior partner and capitalist of the firm, Dr. J. L. Colby, who resides in Harlem, sud who is estimated to be worth $100,000 The firm owes $20,000 for merchandise and $20,000 for the business of the Woven Tape Skirt Works, which they purchased several months ago. Mr. Dunean was present, but the opposing parties again failed to appear, and the Register decided to postpone the matter until later Judge Choate had rendered his decision.

THE TWO ORPHANS IN REAL LIFE.

Matron McCabe, of the Woman's Home, at No. 86 West Fourth-st., reported at the Central Office yesterday that on Tuesday evening last a park officer brought to the Home a young woman, about eighteen years of age, whom he had found alone and without a home, in Washington-square. The young woman gave her name as Liv B. Aubry, and stated that she and her sister Minnie, age nineteen, bad arrived in New-York on Esturday, July 20. Their parents died recently in Colorado, and the two sisters, with the little money left them, came to New-York to look for employment. They boarded a few days with a Mrs. Higble, in Church-st., and on Tuesday, after a fruitless search for employment, they sat down to rest in the square. It was then arranged that Minnie should go out and look for work, while the other awaited her return. All the afternon Lily waited, but in valu, and at nightfall she stated her case to an officer and was taken to the Home. She is described as a fine, healthy-looking country girl, with an intelligent free, and her sister, of whom nothing has yet been heard, is said to resemble her strongly. The police have been instructed to look for the missing girl. Meanwhile her sister remains at the Home. Saturday, July 20. Their parents died recently in Col

A HUSBAND ACCUSED OF INFIDELITY. Mrs. Gregory, wife of William J. Gregory, of No. 126 Bergen-ave., Jersey City Heights, bus made application to the New-Jersey Court of Chancery for a divorce from her husband upon a charge of improper in-timacy with Mrs. C. C. Greene, of Mercer-st., Jersey City. Mr. Gregory obtained several contracts from Ex-Secretary of the Navy Robeson, and amassed considerable wealth. In 1876 he ran for the Assembly considerable wealth. In 1876 he ran for the Assembly upon the Republican ticket against James Stevens and was badly benten. Mrs. Greene, who is a widow, formerly kept a boarding-house in Washington, D. C., she being embloyed at the same time in the Treasury Department as a clerk, It. January last she moved to Jersey City and opened a boarding-house. Sherily after, Mr. Gregory separated from his wife and boarded at Mrs. Greene's house. Mrs. Gregory alleges that her husband was criminally intimate with Mrs. Greene before she left Washington and also in Jersey City. On account of the social standing of the persons the application of Mrs. Gregory has caused considerable excitement in Jersey City, where Mr. Gregory and his wife are well known.

SUNDAY FIGHTING AT WOODSIDE. "Jake" Berry, formerly proprietor of the Columbia Opera House in this city, and now under in-dictment for keeping that disreputable place, about three weeks ago took charge of a hotel at Woodside, L. L. On Sunday last, Berry gave a picule in the grove adjoining the hotel, to the former frequenters of the opera house. The company comprised over 300 disreputable men and women, many of whom were under the influence of liquor when they arrived on the ground. During the day the party drank freely, and at sundown fighting began. Clubs and platols were freely used, and many of the party were seriously injured. The constables of the village made several ineffectual attempts to suppress the esturbance, and were loughly treated. With the aid village hade several fuelf equal attempts to suppress the obsturbance, and were roughly treated. With the aid of some citzens they finally arrested five of the offenders, who were locked up and were held for examination yesterday upon arrangement before Justice Marshell.
Ab indignation meeting was held Sanday evening by the restricted of Woodside. They resolved to use their utmost endeavore to have the participants in the disturbance indicted.

ILLITERATE BUT STRONG OF ARM. John Schaffer and Mary Honis agreed to be man and wife five years ago, and have since lived and worked together, intely at No. 113 St. Mark't-place, on the fourth floor of a tenement-house. The neighbors soon grew accustomed to the daily quarrels between the two. Schaffer drinks, and lately lost much of his work as a tailer, and the woman did a double skare. Yesterday a nattle was in progress in the household. The neighbors heard the din, but paid no attention to it. neighbors heard the dia, but paid no attention to it. The Lailor was at length driven into the bed-room, his wife besieging him in the hall. From the window the tailor reacted forth with a broometick and hit his wife, who retainsted by driving a pair of large sciesors into his leif breast. Schaffer bled copiously. His wound was dressed at the Firth Sirvet Station-house, where the wounds was locked up. "You see," said the wounded man caltemptacoaly, by way of explanation, "the woman has no education; she is beneath me."

A LITTLE GIRL IDENTIFIES TWO THIEVES. Amos J. Bleecker and Francis Myers were before Justice Smith yesterday, charged with stealing a gold watch and chain valued at $100, from John Brickley, of No. 109 Christopher-st. "Put that little garl up here," said Justice Smith, and a little maiden of four years was raised by her mother and seated on the Judge's deck. She was asked to pick out the men she saw getting out of the window into the yard, when she at once pointed to the prisoners. Then Mrs. Bridget Mughes, the mother, testified that she saw the men in the yard. In default of $500 ball each, the men were held for trial at the General Sessions.

THE CAPE MAY EXCURSION PARTY. The representatives of the business interests of this city returned from the Cape May excursion yesterday morning, having made the run from May to Jersey City-174 miles-in the remarkable time of three hours and forty-two minutes. At Camden a meeting was organized, with Mayor Ely in the chair, at which resolutions were adopted expressing thanks to which resolutions were adopted expression in the American Thomas A. Scott, president, Strickland Kneass, assistant to President Scott, Leslie P. Farmer, general passenger agent, and F. W. Jackson, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Radroad; to William J. Sewell, superintendent of the West Jersey Radroad, and to Mayor Williams, of Cape May; Colonel Duffy, proprietor of the Stockton House, and Coloned J. E. Peyton, who had general supervision of the excursion.

pervision of the excursion HEAVY SALES OF FOUR PER CENT BONDS. The operations in Government securities vesterday were unusually heavy-amounting to over 2,000,000 at the First National Bank alone. This institution sold $750,000 4 per cent bonds yesterday, the beaviest orders being from Detroit, $100,000; Lansing Mich., $50,000 : Potsdam, N. Y., $200,000, for a Na tional Bank; St. Louis, $50,000; Chicago, $100,000, and Boston $100,000. These sales exhausted over half of the Saturday subscription made by the First National Bank. Another subscription for $1.590,000 will be made to-day, making a total of $10,500,000 taken by this bank since July 1—making a oaily average sale of $420,000 4 per cent bonds during July.

PULLING DOWN A HOUSE ABOUT A WOMAN'S HEAD.

Andrew Guenter, a wealthy farmer of Ridgerood, L. 1., in 1875 sold his farm of seventy acres to a building association. The farm was cut up into building lots and disposed of at auction. Mr. Guenter was obliged afterward to take back about thirty of the lots under foreclosure. One of the lots he agreed to sell to a Mrs. Smith for $200, to be paid for in monthly instalments of $10. Mrs. Smith paid the first instalment, and erected a small frame house on the lot. Failing to meet the second payment, she informed Mr. Guenther of her insecond payment, she informed Mr. Guenther of her inability to pay, and asked permission to remove the house. This was denied, and she sold it to a neighbor, Mrs. Markey. Mr. Guenter at once ordered Mrs. Markey to remove it from the lot, which she refused to do. On Saturday, acting under the advice of his counsel, Mr.
Guenter, with several men, went to the house. Mrs.
Markey at the time was cooking her dinner. After the nuch had removed the stove, creekery and furniture to the roadside, they pulled down the house and placed the timbers with the furniture. Mrs. Markey will begin an action against Guenter for damages.

DIVIDEND TO ABINGDON SQUARE DEPOSITORS. Receiver Thompson of the Abingdon Square Savings Bank, began the payment yesterday of a s dividend of 15 per cent to the 1,300 depositors of that institution. Checks only were given yesterday, but dur ng the remainder of the week bank notes and silver will ing the remainder of the week bank notes and silver will be used. About $13,000 will be paid out. This bank was closed by the Bank Department August 10, 1876, when the assets were given as $104,720, and liabilities $102,000, but these figures were found to be greatly at fault. The receiver hopes to pay another dividend of possibly 15 per cent—but there is some doubt about it, owing to litigation with the ex-trustees.

ACCIDENT TO A YACHT.

A jib and mainsail yacht, twenty-two feet n length, in a badly disabled condition drifted into the Atlantic Dock about 5 a. m. yesterday, and was secured to one of the piers. There was a good deal of water in the yacht, on the stern of which the name "Little Neck" was painted. In the cabin was a quantity of clams. The appearances indicated that the yacht had come into collision with a larger vessel.

OBITUARY.

JOHN LOCKITT.

The death of John Lockitt was announced resterday at the Produce Exchange, of which he had been a member for fifteen years. Mr. Lockitt was born in England in 1819, and came to this country when he was a boy. He began business in a numble way, and about twenty years ago he founded the Bro pork-packing firm of John Lockist & Co. He studied closely the movements of the English provision market, and for many years he was regarded as the best in formed man on this subject in the Produce Exchange. The exportation of hams was the specialty of his firm, and for several years John Lockitt & Co. have been classed among the largest dealers in this branch of the provision trade. In addition to the pork-packing and curving business, Mr. Lockitt started branch houses in different parts of Brooklyn exclusively for the retail sale of fancy and staple groceries, the rule being to sell at from 10 to 15 per cent below the prices usually charged by small stores.

At the time of his death Mr. Lockitt was at the head of seven of these retail stores, the firm being composed of John Lockitt, two brothers and two nephews. He was a man of large wealth and was well-known for his liberal gifts for charitable purposes. His habits were regular and he always enjoyed robust health. The death of his wife, which occurred about a year ago, was a sad blow to nim, and since then be had been rather low spirited and at times exceedingly melancholy. On Saturday he attended to ousiness as usual, and aside from complaining of a severe headache he was in his usual health. Early on Saturday morning the symptoms of his disease became alarming, and the physicians declared it to be apoplexy. He rapidly grew worse and died yesterday morning. The funeral services will be held to-morrow alternoon at his late residence. No. 145 Clinton-ave., Brooklyn. At the announcement of his death yesterday, the flag of the Produce Exchange was lowered at half-mast, and all his stores in Brooklyn were cosed.

FLUNKYISM ON A RAMPAGE. "Though she wipe not her feet on carpetings, Norvariegated garments fine," exclaimed Agamem-non, when deprecating toe honors paid him on his return from Troy, "Fame lifts high her clear voice." But the officials of the Southeastern Railhis return from Troy, "Fame lifts high her clear voice." But the officials of the Southeastern Railway, living some centuries after Agamemnon, saw no reason why Lord Beaconsheld should be received, as far as his reception rested upon them, with austere simplicity. "Tis our office," they appear to have said, "to strew the path with gorgeous carpetings; Like pupple pavement rich be all his way." And it must be allowed that they did their work well. To be sure, the vast shed at Charing Cross, though a characteristic specimen of railway architecture, is not exactly a Grecian palace, and submits itself with little grace to the decorator's hands. But the authorities dealt with the matter discreetly, above all when they resolved not to attempt too much. The contrast between the arrival platform and the rest of the station was in the highest degree striking. Over three-fourths of the space covered by the wide and lofty roof the usual busy life of a great terminus went on. Trains arrived and started, while crowds hurried to "catch" the one and get as far away as possible from the other; there were greetings and leave-takings, and all the varied incidents of modern travelling life, just as though nothing nucommon was taking place. But side by as far away as possible from the other; there were greetings and leave-takings, and all the varied incidents of modern travelling life, just as though nothing uncommon was taking place. But side by side with all this the uncommon asserted itself in the most charming fashion conceivable. Prose and poerry elbowed each other, and the utilitarian and the romantic were separated by nothing wider than a line of rails. Imagine a crimson-covered gailery built ap against the western wall, and seeming to rise out of a bank of bloom, with here and there a palm or fern to serve as a foil to the splendor of color. Fancy the lamp-bosts made into things of beauty by spirals of flowers and leaves. Picture tall paims lifting their graceful forms from masses of other flowers and ferns. Think of the platform bordered with plants in beds, looking as natural as though a supernatural gardener by "so potent art" had made them grow there. Imagine orange trees shedding around the light reflected from their leaves of lustrous green, then more ferns and flowers crowning and glorifying the liftle wooden offices erst as prosaic in appearance as in use, then a broad crimson earpet stretching from end to end of the platform, and then flags here, there and everywhere, drooping from Venetian masts, or hanging from the walls, or arranged as trophies and suggestively encircled by wreaths of laurel. Having conjured up all these things, some idea of the preparations for Lord Beaconsheld's reception may be formed, and also some notion of the contrast—so strong as to be grotesque in its effect on the eyebetween the festive bit of the station and the everyday remainder. " " The historian of many a public reception, the connoisseur of innumers ble crowds cannot fail to be struck with the most important fact, that those who came to welcome the statesman in the streets gave color to the scene by the mere fact of their presence, and brought life to it by their immediate sympathy. There have been the mere fact of their presence, and brought life to the mere fact of their presence, and brought life to it by their immediate sympathy. There have been receptions by scores, but receptions of a different pattern. When the belis ring from the steeple of St. Martin's-m-the-Fields, when the smart Life Gnards line the streets, when bands play merry tunes and trumpets sound in the distance, when there is a dazzle of uniform and a parade of pomp, when cream-colored horses drag old-fashioned carriages over newly-strewn gravel, when running footmen accompany the procession and coachmen in cocked hats struggle with the reins over the breadth of a tremendous bouquet, then, indeed, enthusiasm is, as it were, called to the front.

A minister's life has frequent disappoint-A minister's life has frequent disappointments. During the great revival a stolid, matter-of fact farmer went into the inquiry room, and was at once taken in hand by auxious and zealots workers. He seemed to be visibly affected by the hymn that was sung, and after the prayer one or two tears were apparently discovered. When asked, "Brother, do you feel any change?" he made a rapid and instinctive movement of his hand in the direction of his vest pocket, and then settling back in his chair with a sigh, replied, "Not a cent; that's just what I'm after."—[Boston Courier.

for his appearance to answer the indictment charring the Commissioners with maireasance in office. Ex-Fire Commissioner McLaughlin became his bondsman. The resolutions in reference to County Treasurer Gardner, recently adopted by the Board of supervisors, were formerly presented to him yesterday. Mr. Gardner retires from the office after continuous service of fifteen years. On Taursday he will sail for Europe in the Scythia. Edward T. Hunt, William B. Scott and M. F. Hunt, executors of the late Thomas Hunt, have peti.

tiosed the Common Conneil for permission to run a ferry from a point between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth-sts. to New-York, and also to construct a railroad from between those streets to the city line. Dawson H. Costello, of No. 273 Warren-st., attempted to jump ashore from one of the Annex Ferry boats at the foot of Fulton-st. Sunday night, and ac-cidentally fell into the water. He was rescued by the deck hands and sent home in a carriage. He was struck by the b-sat and severely bruised on the legs and arms.

While some excavations were being made pesterday near the Cob Dock in the Navy Yard, the bones of what appeared to be four bodies were dis-covered. They are supposed to be remains of some of the martrys of the Revolution. Coroner Simus directed the bones to be buried, as no action was necessary in

The East New-York police reported yester-day that a fight was to take place at the head of Brooklyn-ave., between a man named Brady and John Connors. The report was investigated by the captain of the Twelfth Brooklyn Precinct, and it was found that it srew out of the fact that a fight had occurred early in the morning between some pediers in Flatbush.

William Keenan, of 8512 Summit-st., and Timothy Gavy, of No. 720 Hicks-st., were held in $500 ball each by Justice Bloom yesterday, on the charge of fashing Sunday morning on the meadows near the Thyd-st, bridge over the Gowanus Canal. A second fight was in progress between two men named Flaherty and Walsh, when the police appeared and put to flight the crowd which had collected.

FURTHER REPORTS OF THE ECLIPSE. THE ECLIPSE AT FORT WORTH.

MANY POINTS OBTAINED REGARDED AS VALUABLE. FORT WORTH, Texas, July 29 .- With the aid of omplete apparatus and good weather, the skilful operators here and their willing assistants secured successful observations of the eclipse, and obtained many points regarded by the observers as valuable. in scientific calculations. Fair drawings of the eclipse and corona, and photographs of the moon were obtained. The time of the first contact was 3h., 12m., 25s.; second, 4h., 18m., 20s.; 3h., 12m., 25s.; second, 4h., 18m., 20s.; third, 4h., 21m., 62s.; fourth, 5h., 19m., 36s. The figures need some verification, although very well standing the test of comparison of the various records. The temperature changed 18° during the observation. The party was composed of L. Waldo, of Harvard College; F. E. Seagrave, Providence; R. W. Wilson, Harvard; J. K. Rees and W. H. Pulsifer, St. Louis; assisted by A. Freeman, of Dalhas, Texas; Charles Taylor, St. Louis; Frank Doremus, of Galveston; W. F. Stewart, S. W. Lomax and Mr. McFadden, of Fort Worth; S. H. SCATTERED DETAILS FROM WESTERN CITIES-A CLOUDY DAY AT UTICA.

MILWAUKEE, July 29 .- The eclipse was observed at Milwaukee College Observatory by Professor Charles S. Farmer and other scientists. The few clouds of the morning passed away and left the whole period of the eclipse clear. The time of first contact was 3h. 39m. 35.5s. The time of last contact was 5h. 37m. 11.5s., making the duration one hour, fifty-seven minutes and thirty-six seconds.

St. Paul, Minn., July 29,-Clouds prevented a complete observation of the eclipse. The first contact was obtained within one of the calculated time. At the time of the greatest obscurity, at 4 o'clock 8 minutes, when the sun was eighth-tenths curved, the sun was wholly covered with dense clouds. The last coutact was also lost. THE MONTENEGRINS DISSATISFIED. DEPORTED AID FOR THE HERZEGOVINAN INSUR

GENTS. LONDON, Tuesday, July 30, 1878.

The Daily Telegram's Vienna dispatch reports that the Montenegrins are dissitisfied with the decisions of the Congress, and that 3,000 have joined the Herzegovinian insurgents. EVIDENCES OF GOOD FEELING BETWEEN GERMANY

A Paris dispatch says: "On account of their connection with the Berlin Congress, Prince Hobenlohe and Count von Billow have received the Grand Cross of the Legion of Hour, and Mr. Radowitz, Holszein and Busch have received ining grades of the order. Thesappointments are regarded as indicative of the good feeling between France and Germany."

A TIMBER-YARD FIRE IN PARIS.

LONDON, Monday, July 29, 1878.

A London dispatch from Paris, published in the second edition of The Times, says a fire broke out this morning in the timber yard, two acres in extent, of a furniture manufactory acres in extent, of a furniture manufactory in the centre of a populous district of the city. Six fire engines have been of no avail to stay the progress of the flames, and at the time of telegraphing (3 o'clock this morning) the adjoining buildings were in great danger. The timber in the yard, which was valued at £20,000, is a mass of flames.

Later—The damage by the fire in the timber yard, which was situated in the district of La Vliette, amounted to $250,000. A large candle factory in st. Denis was also burned to-day. The loss was $200,000.

THE FAILURE OF MR. M'VICKER. HIS LIABILITIES $650,000 - THE THEATER IN

CHICAGO TO GO ON. CHICAGO, July 29 .- J. H. McVicker, for many years proprietor of McVicker's Theatre, and well known in the dramatic world, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy to-day. His liabilities are $650,000. Of this amount $500,000 is in the form of a judg-Of this amount $500,000 is in the form of a judgment against him as one of the bondsmen for David A. Gage, ex-City Treasurer, who became a defaulter in a large amount in 1874. Of the remainder, $95,000 is secured by mortgage on McVicker's Theatre, and all the rest is variously secured with the exception of $2,000 or $3,000. Mr. McVicker owes $60,000 to Mrs. McVicker, and $35,000 to various Eastern parties. At present the theatre will be run as heretfore, and all contracts that have been made with dramatic troupes will be carried out.

THE MAINE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

PORTLAND, Me., July 29 .- There will be a large attendance at the Republican State Convention here to-morrow. Ex-Governor Stewart L. Woodford, of New-York, will address the convention. At a meeting of the State Committee to-night, the Hon. Lewis Baker, of Bangor, was elected as chairman, and A. F. Gerrish, of Portland, and George P. Dutton, of Ellsworth, were selected as secretaries. The convention will renominate Governor Connor, and will adopt unequivocal hard money resolutions.

PARDONED BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH. William Simpson, who was sentenced October 29, 1874, to ten years imprisonment at Albany and a sne of $5,000, by the Circuit Court, having been conricted of sending improper matter through the mails, has received a full and unconditional pardon from the President. The reason of the clemency is the state of the prisoner's health, the physician having certified the sunless rolessed he would become a confirmed invalidation paralysis.

THE GERMAN-AMERICAN TEACHERS.

OPENING OF THE ANNUAL CONVENTION-ADDRESSES BY MESSRS. KELLER AND KLAMROTH, MAYOY ELY

AND OTHERS. The ninth annual convention of the German-American Teachers' Association was opened last evening at the Turn Hall, in East Fourth-st., and morning; afternoon and evening sessions will be held daily through the week until Friday, when visits will be made to the public institutions of the city. The conventions of the association have been held heretofore in Western cities, with one exception, when the members gathered at Hoboken. The association, having for its object the introduction of the German Kindergarten and Volk's-schule system of instruction, so far as practicable, into the American schools, has received much encouragement from German-Americans and is steadily growing in numbers. A ma-jority of the delegates, 165 in number, are from Western cities, and nearly one-half of them are ladies. Among those present are: J. Keller. of Hoboken, president of the association; School Director H. Schuricht, of Newark; School Superintendent Klemm, of Cleveland; W. N. Hailmann, of Milwaukee; Mr. Mans, of Cincinnati; A. Schneck, of Detroit, and V. Scheer and Carl Schoenrich, dent Klemm, of Cleveland; W. N. Hallmann, of Milwaukee; Mr. Maas, of Cincinnati; A. Schneck, of Detroit, and V. Scheer and Carl Schoenrich, both vice-principals of English-German public schools in Baltimore, of which there are five in a flourishing condition. Thirty per cent of the publis in two or three of the Baltimore schools are of American parentage.

The Turn Hall was well filled last evening with delegates in attendance on the opening session. German and American flags decorned the walls, and a German singing society next door, in season and out of season, filled the air with music. Mayor Ely and School Superintendent Kiddle occupied seats among the guests. Mr. Keller, chairman of the central committee, welcomed the delegates to what he hoped would prove an carnest and profitule seasion. It had been urged against the association that it was undertaking a work prejudicial to the common school system, and was laboring for specific German results. On the contrary, the aim was not to make German children Germans, but to make them Americans in thought and spirit. There was no conflict between these schools and the common schools; they were both striving for the same object, the moral and intellectual culture of rising generations, and their only wish was that the common am might be obtained.

Albert Klamroth, chairman of the local committee, in welcoming the delegates said that in educational matters benefits would result from the association of German idealism with Anglo-Saxon realism. It was to be regretted that in America education had more breadth and length than depth and substance. Dilletanteism prevailed, and there was a lack of desire for and means of obtaining instruction in special useful callings. He believed that German-American teachers had a mission to introduce those features of the German educational system which were calculated to eradicate these evils, and in all their efforts their aim would be to promote scientific knowledge, moral living and republican thought.
